Recall Notice

13887316 Canada Inc. operating under the business name of Orbital Sandblasting ("Orbital Sandblasting") is voluntarily recalling, out of an abundance of caution, all versions of the Wireless Deadman System transmitters and receivers, ("Wireless Deadman Systems") due to a potential activation issue. Such Wireless Deadman Systems were supplied between the time period of March 23, 2023 and April 15, 2026.

Reason for Recall

A recent report (the "Report") was received by Orbital Sandblasting identifying a Wireless Deadman Systems unit that, after being removed from its charger, was defaulting to an active blasting state immediately upon being paired rather than entering standby mode. We have not presently identified a specific design or manufacturing defect. Potential contributing factors to the issue may include dust ingress, electrostatic discharge, the power supply for charging, or improper handling.

The Safety Hazard

If a Wireless Deadman Systems unit defaults to the active blasting state unexpectedly, Orbital Sandblasting is warning this could result in unintended activation of the blasting hose, posing a risk of severe injury to the operator or nearby personnel.

Required Action for Users

- Cease use or sale of all Wireless Deadman Systems units immediately, regardless of their condition or apparent function.
- Disconnect and remove the devices from all active blasting equipment.
- Discard the Wireless Deadman Systems units through appropriate local electronic waste disposal channels; do not attempt repair, resale, or continued operation.
- Communicate this notice to all known customers, who purchased the Wireless Deadman Systems from you or otherwise known users of the Wireless Deadman Systems.

Company Closure and Limitation of Support

Orbital Sandblasting was in the process of ceasing operations when the Report was received and due to financial circumstances, Orbital Sandblasting may have to address a potential bankruptcy. As a result, Orbital Sandblasting is no longer able to provide replacement units, repairs, warranty service, or technical support for the Wireless Deadman Systems, effective immediately.
